EDGAR ALLAN POE'S

THE

TELLTALE HEART

SYNOPSIS

Adapted from Edgar Allen Poe's original text, this original psychological thriller story has been re-imagined in this mind-bending, pulse-pounding, bloody-disgusting short film.

Following the Narrator (Sonny Grimsley), who is haunted by the "evil eye" of the Old Man (James C Morris) whom he cares for. Descending further into madness, the Narrator murders the Old Man in his bed and then hides the body under the floorboards. When Detectives Tucker (Teren Turner) and Office Sharpe (Mikah Olsen) come to inquire about the old man's whereabouts the Narrator frail mind begins to unravel.

DIRECTOR'S BIO

McClain Lindquist is a first-time filmmaker, a classic Horror-Cinephile, a musician and yes also a mortician. McClain had the unwavering vision AND the wisdom to "do it right". His love of all things Poe and especially of this classic horror/psychological thriller drove his infectious passion to pay 'true' justice to The Tell Tale Heart.

His constant onset philosophy to "let go" of ego and face your fears fostered a truly creative space. This omnipresent mindset inversely allowed transcendent art to flourish. He throughly encourages talented artists across the board to push the envelope and create something definitive.

McClain's background in music allowed him to "serve the song" and do what was ultimately best for each critical aspect of the groundbreaking scary but fun film. "I just wanted to make a really scary movie with a bunch of my friends and have a blast while filming it." Not surprisingly beautiful music drives many scenes in the thrilling movie.

His day/night job as a undertaker also helped to bring the film a unique view point of life and death. "This intense Movie was a 'undertaking' and helped me to release buried emotions and compartmentalized grief." But that all sounds extremely dark.

You wouldn't know that from being around the intrepid Director who "loves life" and is upbeat always keeping spirits high with a warm sense of humor. His deep love of film sparked this movie and continues to propel his future artistic projects.

"An intense, fast-paced, gory, and mesmerizing version of the Tell Tale Heart."
-Zisi Emporium

"Really impressive visual dramatization.. well assembled piece of cinema."
-The Gorecast

"Dripping with poetic gothic goodness."
-Geek Legion of Doom

"The entire film is quite stylish, with sumptuous lighting, skillful camera work and highly effective sound design."
-Monster Movie Happy Hour

"An exemplary understanding of the art and science of cinematic storytelling."
-The R.L. Terry ReelView

"This is, simply put, one of the best short-film adaptations of this age-old tale."
-Tales of Terror

"Clever use of cinematography and lighting adds an uneasy hallucinogenic feeling which creates a new dimension to the narrative."
-Mad About Horror

"A fantastic short film that embodies and pays tribute to Poe's original story!"
-Hooked on Horror

"Sonny Grimsley stole the show.. phenomenal. Really sold the conflicted character and his decent into madness."
-Hooked on Horror

"The narrator's insistence on pontificating with Poe's original text adds a layer of humor that I really appreciated."
-Rue Morgue

"Periods of time merge, creating a confusing whirlwind of images and events."
-Horror Italia
